Paxton James Herkert

09/24/2008 – 02/04/2020

I lost my best friend about a month ago. We were together for more than 8 years. It took a while for him to open up and trust me, more than a couple months, but my gosh, those small little steps during that time meant the world to me. We moved together 8 times; in the 8 years we were together. But I always made sure he knew we were in it together and no matter where we were, I was always coming back to him. After about the 3rd year I think he started believing that. He went everywhere he could with me and was always lighting up the room with smiles. He was my social outlet as well as my out for when I didn't want to be social. He comforted me when I was sad, he was happy for me when I got excited, and he always cuddled me when I asked him. Life doesn't feel the same without him, he was my everything. I miss him so much but couldn't have imagined I would've gotten as lucky as I did, adopting this shy, non-trusting Pitbull boy as a 20-year-old. We grew together and I can't thank him enough for all the memories and life lessons and experiences he gave me. I'll love you forever and never forget you Paxton. Thank you for being my best friend.
