Stormy Barron

04/01/2005 – 01/01/2022

Oh Stormy,

How I will miss you so much! You started your life as a stray and I will remember fondly many memories that featured you alone just as much as some of those of you with your brother Wilbur that left us four years before it was your time. You took so much time to warm up to me when you came to Shelly and I so many summers ago but I am glad that you did. I will never forget how you broke into the house to play with Wilbur that one day before we chose to love you forever but in reality you broke into our hearts too! I will never forget how you used to love to patrol the back yard when we went outside with you and how many of those nice days that you spent just laying in the warmth of the sun. I remember how you enjoyed chasing after those common butterflies or even a stray leaf. I am also glad that when Lucifur came to us in Fall 2019, he was able to keep you feeling young! I know he was a little rough with you from time to time but he is still a kitten at heart.

I will always hold it as an honor that you were a part of my life even if I was not your main person. Both you and Wilbur helped bring out the "Cat Person" part of me that I never knew existed. I am able to endure each passing day since you left us by imagining your spirit reunited with your brother Wilbur as you play in heaven awaiting the time when we will all be reunited.

Take care my friend, I am more complete because I loved you and was loved by you.
